The Khyber: a princely passage

To travel in the Pakistani province of Khyber Pakhtunkhwa is to experience some of the wildest country in the world. There's romance, yes, in the drama of its peaks and the manner of its people, but this rugged country doesn't give up its secrets easily.

Urbane Nomads promise to help unlock the secrets of places such as the Karakorum Highway, Shandur Pass and Kalash Valley, as you tour the region with them from Chitral, into the mountains and then down again into Hunza in the Gilgit-Baltistan autonomous region.

They say they've figured out the best ways to work with, or work around, the existing infrastructure, so you may find your transport ranging from horses to helicopters; and your accommodation, from tents to royal treasure houses.

See www.urbanenomads.com for more details on their packages.
