New most jaw-dropping: Mongolia, Asia

Urbane Nomads know a thing or two about luxury travel experiences that take you off the beaten track and their latest trip into Mongolia has to be their most spectacular one to date.

Set to recreate the lavish hunting expeditions of Kublai Khan in the west of the country, travel on the ground is by horseback accompanied by experienced film maker Joseph Spaid, whose previous cinematic success includes an award winning film on the tradition of eagle hunting among the Kazakhs in Western Mongolia.

When you are not honing your falconry skills with the eagle hunters of Bayan Olgii, you will be whisked by private jet to each new destination, with a private chef and onboard butler on hand to tend to your every need.

Your experience will then be immortalised in oil paint to form part of an exhibition held in Abu Dhabi on 30th September. And the cost? A mere $2 million - although surely such a once in a life time experience is priceless...

For details of the 'In the footsteps of Kublai Khan' experience visit Urbanenomads.com. Visit ADIHEX (Abu Dhabi International hunting and equestrian exhibition) for details of the 30th September event.
