

Urbane Nomads

Tuesday, 07.01.08

You've lived it up in London, found romance in Rome, and even wandered into a tourist trap in Turkey. So what's next, you international traveler you? You could take photos of the Leaning Tower of Pisa or eat brunch in Barcelona, but that's all been done before. Why not try a little something off the beaten path? If you're looking for a bizarre travel suggestion that doubles as an incomparable life experience, we suggest checking in with Urbane Nomads. The self-proclaimed "travel mixologists" specialize in creating unique itineraries for those who think they've seen it all, but ain't seen nothin' yet. So if you've ever imagined yourself playing polo in Pakistan or at a spa in Sri Lanka, your window of opportunity is wide open.
